

Ekaterina Elbakyan

Elbakyan Ekaterina - Doctor of Philosophy (1997), Senior Research Fellow (1999), a specialist in the field of religious studies, philosophy and sociology of religion, professor of sociology and management of social processes at the Academy of Labour and Social Affairs, Head of the Center for Religious Studies "ReligioPolis", the author of 452 scientific works published in Russia and abroad, including six books, a member of the editorial boards of several scientific publications on theological issues, executive secretary of the editorial board of scientific-theoretical journal "Religion." She graduated from the Philosophy Faculty of Moscow State University, Department of Philosophy of Religion and Religious Studies (1985), and completed postgraduate studies at the same institution (1989). From 1992 to 2002 she worked at the research center "Religion in Contemporary Society" Russian Independent Institute for Social and National Problems. Currently professor of sociology and management of social processes of the Academy of Labour and Social Affairs (Moscow)

Dr. Elbakyan is a professor at the State University of Labor and Social Relations. She is the director of Religiopolis Center, a religious studies research center. She is also a member of the European Association for Religious Studies. Dr. Elbakyan's studies center on philosophy and sociology of religion. She has also studied religion and economics, and religious humanitarian activity. Dr. Elbakyan received a Ph.D. from Moscow State University. She has published extensively on topics dealing with religion and philosophy in Russia. She has authored or co-authored more than 200 works. Dr. Elbakyan serves on the editorial board of a scholarly journal on the topic of religious studies.